

Overview

Farm Safety For Just Kids was founded in 1987 by an Iowa farm wife after the death of her 11-year-old son in a gravity flow grain wagon. The organization stays on top of safety and health issues to create award winning resources that educate youth and their families about rural safety and health topics.

Farm Safety For Just Kids relies on donations from corporate sponsors, businesses, and individuals to educate youth across the world about potential dangers on the farm. The goal is prevention through education.

Over 6.5 MILLION youth and families reached since 1987

Chapters

Volunteers and professionals associated with the agriculture industry have formed over 100 chapters across the United States and Canada. The flexible chapter system allows each chapter to best fit the needs of the local community.

"Most kids in our area, if they don't live on a farm, they'll visit one some day. So we feel we need to educate all children, not just farm children."

- Janet Rhoades Darke County Ohio Chapter

Outreach coordinators

The outreach coordinator program began in 2006 offering farm safety education locally at no cost to the community. Outreach coordinators are available to discuss farm safety at events and activities. The program is one of the fastest growing within the organization.

Research collaboration

Farm Safety For Just Kids collaborates with various governmental and research entities to conduct projects that address issues related to preventing farm injuries. The information is used to improve safety education, develop farm safety programs, and create farm safety awareness campaigns.

Safety resources

Farm Safety For Just Kids produces educational resources about various farm safety and health topics. These resources include background information, lesson plans, and activities. Brochures and fact sheets are available for students and parents as well. All materials are available online at no cost.
